I was fortunate to have grown up with parents who worked with ceramics, starting a life long love of creativity. While completing my education degree at the U of S, I took electives in art and pottery. I became a certified instructor and began operating and owning my own ceramics company, and I began to experiment with glass. When I began firing glass in my kiln a whole new world of discovery opened up. Since my retirement from teaching I devote my time to fusing glass, stained glass and other fibre textiles. It is my greatest pleasure to spend time introducing my grandchildren to the wonderful world of glass and having them work on projects of their own. My art work has been represented in galleries, art shows and sales in Saskatchewan, Alberta, Manitoba and the N.W.T.
